

Expenses living benefits can help you cover

Once qualified, how you spend is unrestricted

Life insurance is most often thought of as protection for your loved ones when you're no longer around. An indexed universal life (IUL) insurance policy from F&G can also help you while you're still living. That's especially true in times of need.

Living benefits give you a measure of protection against the unexpected. If you qualify – due to critical,^{1,2,4} terminal^{1,3,4} or chronic illness^{1,4,5} – accelerated death benefit riders in your policy let you tap into a portion of your death benefit early. And they're included for no additional premium.

Once the money is yours, you can do whatever you want or need to do with it.

How would you use your living benefits?

Because living benefits are triggered by health concerns, the most obvious ways they're used is to pay for medical treatments and medications, but that's not all.

¹ The accelerated benefit paid will be based on the age and severity of illness and will be less than the accelerated amount due to receiving the death benefit prior to the death of the insured and the administrative fee. The death benefit will be reduced by the full, accelerated amount. Benefits under these riders are intended to qualify for favorable tax treatment, ultimately these benefits may or may not be taxable. You should seek assistance from your personal tax advisor before exercising this benefit.

² For the critical illness rider, a covered illness must first occur on or after the effective date of the rider. If you choose to accelerate the critical illness rider, both the terminal illness and chronic illness riders terminate.

³ Subject to state availability. Certain restrictions may apply.

⁴ The rider is not available when the insured life is rated higher than table 4 or if there is a flat extra rating per $1,000.

⁵ This is a life insurance policy that gives you the option to accelerate some or all of the death benefit in the event you meet the criteria for a qualifying event described in the rider. Accelerated benefits depend on policy values at the time of acceleration. Accelerated benefits paid will reduce the death benefit and use of the proceeds are unrestricted. Comparatively, Long Term Care benefits are expense reimbursements based on benefit levels and a pool of money selected at the time of purchase. Long Term Care benefit will not reduce death benefits and the proceeds must be used for Long Term Care services. This policy and riders do not provide long term care insurance subject to California long term care insurance law. This policy and riders are not a California Partnership for Long-Term Care program policy.

Surrenders and withdrawals beyond basis may be taxable income and subject to penalties if taken prior to age 59 ½. Excessive and unpaid loans will reduce policy values and may cause the policy to lapse. In order to receive favorable tax treatments on distributions made during the lifetime of the insured (including loans), a life insurance policy must satisfy a 7-pay premium limitation during the first seven policy years. A new 7-year limitation will be imposed after certain policy changes. Failure to satisfy this limitation would cause your policy to be considered a Modified Endowment Contract (MEC).
