Definitions

Point-to-Point with Cap

After the one-year term, the beginning and ending values of the index are calculated for a percentage change. If the change is positive, your account is credited the percentage up to a cap. If the change is negative, your account is protected from losses.

Point-to-Point with Participation Rate

The annual point-to-point change is determined by subtracting the prior year's index value from the current year's index value. The result is divided by the prior year's index value. This gives the percentage change in the index. The percentage change is multiplied by the participation rate. This gives the indexed interest credit rate. On the indexed interest crediting date, at the end of the one-year term, the indexed interest credit rate is multiplied by the option's account value to determine the indexed interest credit. If the change is negative, your account is protected from losses.

Point-to-Point Performance Trigger (Declared Rate)

After the one-year term, the beginning and ending values of the index are calculated for a percentage change. If the change is positive, your account is credited the declared rate. If the change is negative or zero, your account is protected from losses.

In calculating the level of the Index, the index methodology deducts a maintenance fee of .85% per year, calculated daily. This fee will reduce the level of the Index and thus the amount of interest, if any, that will be credited to any Product. Furthermore, while the volatility control applied by CIBC as part of the index methodology may result in less fluctuation in rates of return as compared to indices without volatility controls, it may also reduce the overall rate of return for products referencing the Index as compared to other indices not subject to volatility controls.
