

A Conservative Path to More Upside Potential

Consider your allocation options

Because of their principal protection and aim for modest growth, both Multi-Year Guarantee Annuities (MYGAs) and Fixed Indexed Annuities (FIAs) fall in the conservative range of the risk spectrum and may act as a solid foundation of a diversified plan for retirement.

This quick reference guide is intended to provide an overview of product types. This is not a full comparison and is not intended to describe all benefits and limits of each. Specific products offered by F&G come with a Statement of Understanding (the SOU) that explains the annuity in detail. The SOU has product information that's important to help you understand the annuity. If you decide to complete an application, your financial professional will ask you to sign an acknowledgment to confirm you've read the SOU. If there is any conflict between this guide and the SOU, the SOU prevails.

How two products could be better than one

If you're interested in the guaranteed growth of a MYGA but hoping for more upside potential, here's an approach to consider.

Allocating some premium to a MYGA and putting the rest in an FIA—where growth isn't guaranteed but premium is still 100% protected from market-related losses—could be just the ticket.

Accumulation potential after 10 years

The above graphs are based on credited rates for the period 12/31/2014-12/31/2024 and assumes no fees, charges or withdrawals are taken during this period. Index performance is not indicative of future results. The index does not reflect dividends paid on underlying stocks.

The hypothetical MYGA performance assumes a $100,000 premium that accumulates at an interest rate of 5.55% reflective of the F&G Secure MYGA® 7 MVA annuity high band rates. The hypothetical FIA performance assumes a $100,000 premium and an Annual Participation Rate of 210%, using a one-year point-to-point crediting method based on the Balanced Asset 5 Index™ reflective of the F&G SecureBuilder™ 7 fixed indexed annuity high band rates. The third allocation uses 2/3 of the above MYGA and 1/3 of the above FIA using the same interest crediting methods but uses low band rates of 5.30% for the MYGA and 200% participation rate for the FIA for a total of $100,000 premium. MYGA rates are effective March 17, 2025. FIA rates are effective February 10, 2025.

Why pick just one?

Choosing between an FIA and a MYGA doesn't have to be an all-or-nothing decision. By diversifying, you can give some of your money a chance to earn higher interest in an FIA, while the rest of your money earns guaranteed interest in a MYGA.

This fee will reduce the level of the Index and thus the amount of interest, if any, that will be credited to any Product. Furthermore, while the volatility control applied by CIBC as part of the index methodology may result in less fluctuation in rates of return as compared to indices without volatility controls, it may also reduce the overall rate of return for products referencing the Index as compared to other indices not subject to volatility controls.
